

Factory's  heart®

We take an apricot filling and wrap it in long-matured dough. Leaving it to lie has been, since the very beginning, the most important stage of production. We have retained this process in its original form while others long ago forgot it. In the cold depths of our cellars, the spices infuse the Gingerbread Cakes dough and it acquires a characteristic sweetness. The ingredients combine to produce a mixture of an amber colour.

Carefully selected ingredients, secret recipes, hundreds of years of tradition and the knowledge we have inherited over generations from the Master Bakers. And even though the world changes, we do not want some things to alter. This is why we still bake our Gingerbread Cakes the same way 250 years and counting. Doing our best.
